Keeping Score

Let's Get Started

- Scorekeeping baseball involves utilizing “short-hand” or abbreviated terms that represents the outcome of an at-bat and subsequent plays.
- For the purpose of this training, we will utilize the first batters listed on the right.
- On the next few pages, documented examples show how to score:
 - Balls, Strikes, Fouls
 - Counting Pitches
 - Batter On-base
 - Batter Out
 - Runner Advances
 - Runner Out

Scoring Examples (page 1-2)

Balls, Strikes, and Fouls

- Each score block has a place to count balls, strikes (including fouls).
- There are two methods:

Example: 2 balls, 2 strikes, 2 fouls

Important: Account for all fouls after the 2nd strike, because each foul counts as a pitch delivered.

Counting Pitches

- At the end of each at-bat, count up the number of pitches thrown.
- Document the at-bat count and the cumulative count.

Keeping Score

Batter Gets On-Base

NOTE: While not required, it is acceptable to draw a line in the score block that shows where the ball was put in play.

Substitutions/Re-Entry Changes

Write the jersey number, player name, position and inning for the substitute. Use a vertical line to indicate when the player substitution takes place.

IMPORTANT: Make sure to properly document WHEN the substitution takes place, as the scorebook will be reviewed in the event there is a protest about minimum play requirements. Scorebook is the official record of the game.

Example #1: Assuming the team is visiting, the substitute player (#2) is coming in for starter (#11) while on offense in the 4th inning:

Example #2: Assuming the team is visiting, the substitute player (#2) is coming in for starter (#11) while on defense in the 4th inning:

Keeping Score Pitching Changes

When a pitching change occurs, there are two places to document the change:

- Offensive Team's Scorecard: Draw a horizontal line where the new pitcher entered the game.
- Defensive Team's Scorecard: Finalize the pitch totals for the pitcher leaving the game, and place the jersey number and player name of the new pitcher on the next line of the pitcher performance section.

IMPORTANT: Pitch counts are important due to Little League's days rest requirement. Make sure to keep accurate pitch counts, as what is in the scorebook is official.

Example: During the 4th inning, starting pitcher (#11) was replaced by another pitcher (9). The starting pitcher exited the game with a total of 85 pitches thrown.

Other Considerations

In the Minor Leagues, it is important to note pitching visits, team timeouts and courtesy runners. While the UIC (Umpire-In-Chief) is responsible for keeping track, he/she may rely on the official scorebook for protested rulings.

Pitching Visits

Simply keep “tally” next to the pitchers name:

| NO | PITCHER'S SUMMARY |
|----|------------------------|
| 11 | Clifford, D. |
| 1 | Ward, T. |
| | |
| | |
| | |
| | |
| | PITCHING TOTALS |

Team Timeouts

Simply document when the team timeout was taken:

| TEAM TIME OUTS | | | | | | | |
|----------------|----|--|--|--|--|--|--|
| HOME | ↑2 | | | | | | |
| VISITORS | ↓1 | | | | | | |

Courtesy Runner

Simply document where the Courtesy Runner (“CR”) enters the game (using the Jersey Number):

Courtesy Runner
(Jersey #8)

Post-Game Activities

- Document final pitch counts for all pitchers.
- Document final score of game.
- Return scorebook to storage room.

For Minor AA Leagues and older:

- Send email to scores@rocklinllb.com with the following information:
 - League Name
 - Participating Teams
 - Final Score (indicate who won)
 - Example=
 - 3/10 Majors Division: Red Sox 15 Vs Yankees 2; Red Sox won.
